Bridges to be widened in certain cases. bridges be not of less width, in the case of a turnpike road or public carriage road, than twenty feet: Provided also, that if at any time after the construction of the railway the average available width of any such road shall be increased beyond the width of such bridge on either side thereof, the company shall be bound, at their own expence, to increase the width of the said bridge to such extent as they may be required by the trustees or surveyors of such road, not exceeding the width of such road as so widened, or the maximum width herein or in the special Act prescribed for a bridge in the like case over or under the railway.

Existing inclinations of roads orossed or diverted need not be improved.

LII. Provided also, that if the mesne inclination of any road within two hundred and fifty yards of the point of crossing the same, or the inclination of such portion of any road as may require to be altered, or for which another road shall be substituted, shall be steeper than the inclination herein-before required to be preserved by the company, then the company may carry any such road over or under the railway, or may construct such altered or substituted road, at an inclination not steeper than the said mesne inclination of the road so to be crossed, or of the road so requiring to be altered, or for which another road shall be substituted.

Before roads interfered with, others to be substituted. LIII. IF, in the exercise of the powers by this or the special Act granted, it be found necessary to cross, cut through, raise, sink, or use any part of any road, whether carriage road, horse road, tramroad, or railway, either public or private, so as to render it impassable for or dangerous or extraordinarily inconvenient to passengers or carriages, or to the persons entitled to the use thereof, the company shall, before the commencement of any such operations, cause a sufficient road to be made instead of the road to be interfered with, and shall at their own expence maintain such substituted road in a state as convenient for passengers and carriages as the road so interfered with, or as nearly so as may be.

Penalty for not substituting a road.

LIV. If the company do not cause another sufficient road to be so made before they interfere with any such existing road as aforesaid, they shall forfeit twenty pounds for every day during which such substituted road shall not be made after the existing road shall have been interrupted; and such penalty shall be paid to the trustees, commissioners, surveyor, or other person having the management of such road, if a public road, and shall be applied for the purposes thereof, or in case of a private road the same shall be paid to the owner thereof; and every such penalty shall be recoverable with costs by action in any of the superior courts.

Party suffering damage from interruption of road to recover in an action on the case. LV. If any party entitled to a right of way over any road so interfered with by the company shall suffer any special damage by reason that the company shall fail to cause another sufficient road to be made before they interfere with the existing road, it shall be lawful for such party to recover the amount of such special damage from the company, with costs, by action on the case in any of the superior courts, and that whether any party shall have sued for such penalty as aforesaid or not, and without prejudice to the right of any party to sue for the same.

Roads interfered with to be restored, or others permanently substituted, within a limited time. LVI. If the road so interfered with can be restored compatibly with the formation and use of the railway, the same shall be restored to as good a condition as the same was in at the time when the same was first interfered with by the company, or as near thereto as may be; and if such road cannot be restored compatibly with the formation and use of the railway, the company shall cause the new or substituted road, or some other sufficient substituted road, to be put into a permanently substantial condition, equally convenient as the former road, or as near thereto as circumstances will allow; and the former road shall be restored, or the substituted road put into such condition as aforesaid, as the case may be, within the following periods after the first operation on the former road shall have been commenced, unless the trustees or parties having the management of the road to be restored by writing under their hands consent to an extension of the period, and in such case within such extended period; (that is to say,) if the road be a turnpike road, within six months, and if the road be not a turnpike road, within twelve months.

Crossing of roads, and construction of bridges.

LVII. IF any such road be not so restored, or the substituted road so Penalty for completed as aforesaid, within the periods herein or in the special Act fixed for failing to that purpose, the company shall forfeit to the trustees, commissioners, surveyor, substitute road. or other person having the management of the road interfered with by the company, if a public road, or if a private road to the owner thereof, five pounds for every day after the expiration of such periods respectively during which such road shall not be so restored or the substituted road completed; and it shall be lawful for the justices by whom any such penalty is imposed to order the whole or any part thereof to be laid out in executing the work in respect whereof such penalty was incurred.

LVIII. If in the course of making the railway the company shall use or Company to interfere with any road, they shall from time to time make good all damage used by them. done by them to such road; and if any question shall arise as to the damage done to any such road by the company, or as to the repair thereof by them. such question shall be referred to the determination of two justices; and such justices may direct such repairs to be made in the state of such road, in respect of the damage done by the company, and within such period, as they think reasonable, and may impose on the company, for not carrying into effect such repairs, any penalty not exceeding five pounds per day as to such justices shall seem just; and such penalty shall be paid to the surveyor or other person having the management of the road interfered with by the company, if a public road, and be applied for the purposes of such road, or if a private road the same shall be paid to the owner thereof: Provided always, that in determining any such question with regard to a turnpike road the said justices shall have regard to and shall make full allowance for any tolls that may have been paid by the company on such road in the course of the using thereof.

LIX. WHEN the company shall intend to apply for the consent of two Proceedings justices, as herein-before provided, so as to authorize them to carry the railway on application to justices to across any highway other than a public carriage road on the level, they shall, consent to level fourteen days at least previous to the holding of the petty sessions at which crossings over highways other such application is intended to be made, cause notice of such intended than public application to be given in some newspaper circulating in the county, and also to be affixed upon the door of the parish church of the parish in which such crossing is intended to be made, or, if there be no such church, some other place to which notices are usually affixed; and if it appear to any two or more justices acting for the district in which such highway at the proposed crossing thereof is situate, and assembled in petty sessions, after such notice as XCI. AND whereas authority has been given by various Acts of Parliament to railway companies to demand tolls for the conveyance of passengers and goods, and for other services, over the fraction of a mile, equal to the toll which they are authorized to demand for one mile: Therefore, in cases in which any railway shall be amalgamated with any other adjoining railway or railways, such tolls shall be calculated and imposed at such rates as if such amalgamated railways had originally formed one line of railway.

XCII. It shall not be lawful for the company at any time to demand or take a greater amount of toll, or make any greater charge for the carriage of passengers or goods, than they are by this and the special Act authorized to demand; and upon payment of the tolls from time to time demandable all companies and persons shall be entitled to use the railway, with engines and carriages properly constructed as by this and the special Act directed, subject nevertheless to the provisions and restrictions of the said Act of the sixth year of her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the better regulation of railways, " and for the conveyance of troops," and to the regulations to be from time to time made by the company by virtue of the powers in that behalf hereby and by the special Act conferred upon them.

XCIII. A LIST of all the tolls authorized by the special Act to be taken, and which shall be exacted by the company, shall be published by the same being painted upon one toll board or more in distinct black letters on a white ground, or white letters on a black ground, or by the same being printed in legible characters on paper affixed to such board, and by such board being exhibited in some conspicuous place on the stations or places where such tolls shall be made payable.

XCIV. THE company shall cause the length of the railway to be measured, and milestones, posts, or other conspicuous objects to be set up and maintained along the whole line thereof, at the distance of one quarter of a mile from each other, with numbers or marks inscribed thereon denoting such distances.

XCV. No tolls shall be demanded or taken by the company for the use of the railway during any time at which the boards herein-before directed to be exhibited shall not be so exhibited, or at which the milestones herein-before directed to be set up and maintained shall not be so set up and maintained; and if any person wilfully pull down, deface, or destroy any such board or milestone, he shall forfeit a sum not exceeding five pounds for every such offence.

XCVI. THE tolls shall be paid to such persons, and at such places upon or near to the railway, and in such manner and under such regulations, as the company shall, by notice to be annexed to the list of tolls, appoint.

XCVII. IF, on demand, any person fail to pay the tolls due in respect of any carriage or goods, it shall be lawful for the company to detain and sell such carriage, or all or any part of such goods, or, if the same shall have been removed from the premises of the company, to detain and sell any other carriages or goods within such premises belonging to the party liable to pay such tolls, and out of the monies arising from such sale to retain the tolls payable as aforesaid, and all charges and expences of such detention and sale, rendering the overplus, if any, of the monies arising by such sale, and such of the carriages or goods as shall remain unsold, to the person entitled thereto, or it shall be lawful for the company to recover any such tolls by action at law.

XCVIII. Every person being the owner or having the care of any carriage Passengers and or goods passing or being upon the railway shall, on demand, give to the collector of tolls, at the places where he attends for the purpose of receiving goods or of collecting tolls for the part of the railway on which such carriage lading, &c. or goods may have travelled or be about to travel, an exact account in writing to be given. signed by him of the number or quantity of goods conveyed by any such carriage, and of the point on the railway from which such carriage or goods have set out or are about to set out, and at what point the same are intended to be unloaded or taken off the railway; and if the goods conveyed by any such carriage, or brought for conveyance as aforesaid, be liable to the payment of different tolls, then such owner or other person shall specify the respective numbers or quantities thereof liable to each or any of such tolls.

Account of

XCIX. If any such owner or other such person fail to give such account, or Penalty for to produce his way-bill or bill of lading, to such collector or other officer or not giving account of servant of the company demanding the same, or if he give a false account, or lading, &c. if he unload or take off any part of his lading or goods at any other place than shall be mentioned in such account, with intent to avoid the payment of any tolls payable in respect thereof, he shall for every such offence forfeit to the company a sum not exceeding ten pounds for every ton of goods, or for any parcel not exceeding one hundred weight, and so in proportion for any less quantity of goods than one ton, or for any parcel exceeding one hundred weight, (as the case may be,) which shall be upon any such carriage; and such penalty shall be in addition to the toll to which such goods may be liable.

C. Ir any dispute arise concerning the amount of the tolls due to the company, or concerning the charges occasioned by any detention or sale thereof disputes as under the provisions herein or in the special Act contained, the same shall be of tolls settled by a justice; and it shall be lawful for the company in the meanwhile to detain the goods, or (if the case so require) the proceeds of the sale thereof.

Settlement of

CI. IF any difference arise between any toll collector or other officer or Difference servant of the company and any owner of or person having the charge of any as to weights, carriage passing or being upon the railway, or of any goods conveyed or to be conveyed by such carriage, respecting the weight, quantity, quality, or nature of such goods, such collector or other officer may lawfully detain such carriage or goods, and examine, weigh, gauge, or otherwise measure the same; and if upon such measuring or examination such goods appear to be of greater weight or quantity or of other nature than shall have been stated in the account given thereof, then the person who shall have given such account shall pay, and the owner of such carriage, or the respective owners of such goods, shall also, at the option of the company, be liable to pay, the costs of such measuring and examining; but if such goods appear to be of the same or less weight or quantity than and of the same nature as shall have been stated in such account, then the company shall pay such costs, and they shall also pay to such owner of or person having charge of such carriage, and to the respective owners of such goods, such damage (if any) as shall appear to any justice, on a summary application to him for that purpose, to have arisen from such detention.

CII. IF at any time it be made to appear to any justice, upon the complaint Toll collector of the company, that any such detention, measuring, or examining of any for wrongful carriage or goods, as herein-before mentioned, was without reasonable ground, detention of or that it was vexatious on the part of such collector or other officer, then the collector or other officer shall himself pay the costs of such detention and measuring, and the damage occasioned thereby; and in default of immediate payment of any such costs or damage the same may be recovered by distress of the goods of such collector, and such justice shall issue his warrant accordingly.

Penalty on passengers practising frauds on the company. CIII. If any person travel or attempt to travel in any carriage of the company, or of any other company or party using the railway, without having previously paid his fare, and with intent to avoid payment thereof, or if any person, having paid his fare for a certain distance, knowingly and wilfully proceed in any such carriage beyond such distance, without previously paying the additional fare for the additional distance, and with intent to avoid payment thereof, or if any person knowingly and wilfully refuse or neglect, on arriving at the point tolwhich he has paid his fare, to quit such carriage, every such person shall for every such offence forfeit to the company a sum not exceeding forty shillings.

Detention of offenders.

CIV. If any person be discovered, either in or after committing or attempting to commit any such offence as in the preceding enactment mentioned, all officers and servants and other persons on behalf of the company, or such other company or party as aforesaid, and all constables, gaolers, and peace officers, may lawfully apprehend and detain such person until he can conveniently be taken before some justice, or until he be otherwise discharged by due course of law.

No person to carry or require company to carry dangerous goods on railway. Penalty for sending such goods by railway without giving notice to company. Company may refuse or open parcels.

CV. No person shall be entitled to carry, or to require the company to carry, upon the railway, any aquafortis, oil of vitriol, gunpowder, lucifer matches, or any other goods which in the judgment of the company may be of a dangerous nature; and if any person send by the railway any such goods without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing the same, or otherwise giving notice in writing to the book-keeper or other servant of the company with whom the same are left, at the time of so sending, he shall forfeit to the company twenty pounds for every such offence; and it shall be lawful for the company to refuse to take any parcel that they may suspect to contain goods of a dangerous nature, or require the same to be opened to ascertain the fact.

Delivery of offices, books, &c. in possession or custody of toll collector at removal, &c.

CVI. If any collector of tolls or other officer employed by the company be discharged or suspended from his office, or die, abscond, or absent himself, and if such collector or other officer, or the wife, widow, or any of the family or representatives of any such collector or other officer, refuse or neglect, after seven days notice in writing for that purpose, to deliver up to the company, or to any person appointed by them for that purpose, any station, dwelling house, office, or other building, with its appurtenances, or any books, papers, or other matters belonging to the company in the possession or custody of any such collector or officer at the occurrence of any such event as aforesaid, then, upon application being made by the company to any justice, it shall be lawful for such justice to order any constable, with proper assistance, to enter upon such station or other building, and to remove any person found therein, and to take possession thereof, and of any such books, papers, or other matters, and to deliver the same to the company, or any person appointed by them for that purpose.

CVII. And be it enacted, that the company shall every year cause an annual Annual account in abstract to be prepared, showing the total receipts and expenditure be made up, of all funds levied by virtue of this or the special Act for the year ending on and a copy the thirty-first day of December or some other convenient day in each year, to the clerk under the several distinct heads of receipt and expenditure, with a statement of the peace, of the balance of such account, duly audited and certified by the directors, or some of them, and by the auditors, and shall, if required, transmit a copy of the said account, free of charge, to the overseers of the poor of the several parishes through which the railway shall pass, and also to the clerks of the peace of the counties through which the railway shall pass, on or before the thirty-first day of January then next; which last-mentioned account shall be open to the inspection of the public at all seasonable hours, on payment of the sum of one shilling for every such inspection: Provided always, that if the said company shall omit to prepare or transmit such account as aforesaid, if required so to do by any such clerk of the peace or overseers of the poor, they shall forfeit for every such omission the sum of twenty pounds.

And with respect to the regulating of the use of the railway, be it enacted as follows:

Bye Laws.

CVIII. It shall be lawful for the company, from time to time, subject to Company to the provisions and restrictions in this and the special Act contained, to make use of the regulations for the following purposes; (that is to say,)

For regulating the mode by which and the speed at which carriages using the railway are to be moved or propelled;

For regulating the times of the arrival and departure of any such carriages;

For regulating the loading or unloading of such carriages, and the weights which they are respectively to carry;

For regulating the receipt and delivery of goods and other things which are to be conveyed upon such carriages;

For preventing the smoking of tobacco, and the commission of any other nuisance, in or upon such carriages, or in any of the stations or premises occupied by the company;

And generally for regulating the travelling upon or using and working of the railway:

But no such regulation shall authorize the closing of the railway, or prevent the passage of engines or carriages on the railway, at reasonable times, except at any time when in consequence of any of the works being out of repair, or from any other sufficient cause, it shall be necessary to close the railway or any part thereof.

CIX. For better enforcing the observance of all or any of such regulations Power to it shall be lawful for the company, subject to the provisions of an Act passed tions by bye in the fourth year of the reign of her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for laws, subject to " regulating railways," to make bye laws, and from time to time to repeal or c. 97. alter such bye laws, and make others, provided that such bye laws be not repugnant to the laws of that part of the United Kingdom where the same are to have effect, or to the provisions of this or the special Act; and such bye laws shall be reduced into writing, and shall have affixed thereto the common seal of the company; and any person offending against any such bye law shall forfeit for every such offence any sum not exceeding five pounds, to be imposed by the company in such bye laws as a penalty for any such offence; and if the infraction or non-observance of any such bye law or other such regulation as aforesaid be attended with danger or annoyance to the public, or hindrance to the company in the lawful use of the railway, it shall be lawful for the company summarily to interfere to obviate or remove such danger, annoyance, or hindrance, and that without prejudice to any penalty incurred by the infraction of any such bye law.

Publication of such bye laws. CX. THE substance of such last-mentioned bye laws, when confirmed or allowed according to the provisions of any Act in force regulating the allowance or confirmation of the same, shall be painted on boards, or printed on paper and pasted on boards, and hung up and affixed and continued on the front or other conspicuous part of every wharf or station belonging to the company, according to the nature or subject matter of such bye laws respectively, and so as to give public notice thereof to the parties interested therein or affected thereby; and such boards shall from time to time be renewed as often as the bye laws thereon or any part thereof shall be obliterated or destroyed; and no penalty imposed by any such bye law shall be recoverable unless the same shall have been published and kept published in manner aforesaid.

Such bye laws to be binding on all parties. CXI. Such bye laws, when so confirmed, published, and affixed, shall be binding upon and be observed by all parties, and shall be sufficient to justify all persons acting under the same; and for proof of the publication of any such bye laws it shall be sufficient to prove that a printed paper or painted board, containing a copy of such bye laws, was affixed and continued in manner by this Act directed, and in case of its being afterwards displaced or damaged then that such paper or board was replaced as soon as conveniently might be.

Leasing of railway.

And with respect to leasing the railway, be it enacted as follows:

Conditions to be contained in leases executed in exercise of power to lease railway. CXII. Where the company shall be authorized by the special Act to lease the railway or any part thereof to any company or person, the lease to be executed in pursuance of such authority shall contain all usual and proper covenants on the part of the lessee for maintaining the railway, or the portion thereof comprised in such lease, in good and efficient repair and working condition during the continuance thereof, and for so leaving the same at the expiration of the term thereby granted, and such other provisions, conditions, covenants, and agreements as are usually inserted in leases of a like nature.

Powers vested in the company may be exercised by the lessees. CXIII. Such lease shall entitle the company or person to whom the same shall be granted to the free use of the railway or portion of railway comprised therein, and during the continuance of any such lease all the powers and privileges granted to and which might otherwise be exercised and enjoyed by the company, or the directors thereof, or their officers, agents, or servants, by virtue of this or the special Act, with regard to the possession, enjoyment, and management of the railway, or of the part thereof comprised in such lease, and the tolls to be taken thereon, shall be exercised and enjoyed by the lessee, and the officers and servants of such lessee, under the same regulations and restrictions as are by this or the special Act imposed on the company and their directors, officers, and servants; and such lessee shall, with respect to the railway comprised in such lease, be subject to all the obligations by this or the special Act imposed on the company.

And with respect to the engines and carriages to be brought on the railway, be it enacted as follows:

Carriages and engines.

CXIV. EVERY locomotive steam engine to be used on the railway shall, if it Engines to use coal or other similar fuel emitting smoke, be constructed on the principle smoke. of consuming and so as to consume its own smoke; and if any engine be not so constructed the company or party using such engine shall forfeit five pounds for every day during which such engine shall be used on the railway.

CXV. Persons trespassing may be seized.

II. And be it enacted, that if any person shall trespass upon any ground. enclosed or unenclosed, or in or upon any river, water, or loch, with intent to take with any net any trout or other fresh-water fish, such person shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding five pounds for every such offence.

III. And be it enacted, that if any such trespasser shall have in his possession any net of any description whereby trout or other fresh-water fish may be taken or killed, the possession thereof shall be held to be sufficient evidence of the intent of such trespasser to commit such offence.

IV. And be it enacted, that it shall be lawful for any person, without any warrant or other authority than this Act, brevi manû, to seize and detain any person who shall be found committing any offence against this Act, and to 20 Geo. 2. c. 43, justiciary, or, where there are no circuit courts, to the High Court of Justiciary at Edinburgh, in the manner, and by and under the rules, limitations, conditions, and restrictions, contained in an Act passed in the twentieth year of the reign of his Majesty King George the Second, for taking away and abolishing heritable jurisdiction in Scotland, with this variation, that such person shall, in place of finding caution in the terms prescribed by the said Act, be bound to find caution to pay the penalty or forfeiture and expences awarded against him by the sentence appealed from, in the event of the appeal being dismissed or not insisted in, together with any additional expences that may be awarded by the court on deciding or dismissing the appeal; and it shall not be competent to appeal from or bring the judgment of any sheriff acting in the execution of this Act under review by advocation or suspension, or by reduction, or in any other way than as herein provided.

Application of penalties.

VIII. And be it enacted, that all penalties and forfeitures imposed under the authority of this Act shall, when levied, be paid, the one half thereof to the prosecutor, and the other half to the poor of the parish within which the offence shall have been committed.

Limitation of actions.

IX. AND be it enacted, that no prosecution or other proceeding whatever shall be brought or commenced against any person for any offence against this Act, unless the same shall be commenced within six calendar months after such offence shall have been committed.

Interpretation of terms.

X. And be it enacted, that the words "river," "water," or "loch" occurring in this Act shall mean and include any stream, burn, mill-pool, mill-lead, mill-dam, sluice, pond, cut, canal, and aqueduct, and every other collection or run of water in which trouts and other fresh-water fish breed, haunt, or are found or preserved; that the word "sheriff" shall mean the sheriff of the county in which the offence happens or case arises, and shall include the sheriff substitutes of such sheriffs; that the singular shall include the plural number, and words importing the plural number shall include the singular; and words importing the masculine gender shall include females.

Act not to affect Salmon Fishery Acts.

XI. AND be it enacted, that nothing herein contained shall affect any Act of Parliament, general or local, passed for the preservation of the salmon fisheries in Scotland, or in relation to the fishing of salmon or fish of the salmon kind in Scotland.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

An Acr to empower Canal Companies and the Commissioners of Navigable Rivers to vary their Tolls, Rates, and Charges on different Parts of their Navigations. [30th June 1845.]

WHEREAS by divers Acts of Parliament various canal companies and the commissioners or trustees of several navigable rivers have been authorized and empowered to levy and receive certain tolls, rates, and charges for the use of their respective canals and navigations, which tolls, rates, and charges are for the most part required to be levied at one uniform rate per ton or per mile throughout the entire length of the said navigations and rivers respectively, without regard to any difference of circumstances which may the said canal, navigation, branches, railways, or tramways respectively, and upon all goods, animals, articles, and things, of a like description, and conveyed or propelled in a like boat, barge, or other vessel passing along or using the same portion of the said canal, navigation, branches, railways, or tramways, under the like circumstances; and that all tolls and charges for haulage or trackage or other power to be supplied by any such company, commissioners, trustees, or lessees, shall be at all times charged equally to all persons, and after the same rate, whether per mile, or per ton per mile, or otherwise, in respect of all goods, animals, articles, and things, of a like description, and conveyed in a like boat or vessel, drawn or propelled by a like power, and passing along or using the same portion of any such canal, navigation, branches, railways, or tramways, under the like circumstances; and no reduction or advance in any tolls or charges for the use of any such canal, navigation, branches, railways, or tramways, or for the supply of any haulage, trackage, or other power by the said companies, commissioners, trustees, or lessees, shall be made, either directly or indirectly, in favour of or against any particular company or person passing along or using the same portion of such canal, navigation, branches, railways, or tramways.

Act not to apply until a meeting of shareholders, or, where there are no shareholders, until commissioners or trustees, or owners, have determined to adopt it, and notices have been duly published.

III. Provided always, and be it enacted, that this Act shall not apply to any canal or navigation the property wherein is vested in shareholders, until a meeting of the shareholders thereof shall have been duly convened, in such manner as meetings are by their respective Acts of incorporation or settlement required to be called, or are usually called, and it shall have been determined, by a majority of two thirds of the votes of the shareholders in such meeting assembled, either in person or by proxy (where by such Acts of incorporation or settlement voting by proxy is allowed), to adopt the powers hereby granted, and where such navigations are vested in commissioners or trustees, without any body of shareholders or proprietors, until a special meeting of such commissioners or trustees shall have been duly convened, in such manner as special meetings are by the respective Acts for regulating such navigations required to be called, or are usually called, and it shall have been determined by a majority of such commissioners or trustees in such meeting assembled to a lopt the powers by this Act granted, or to any canal or navigation the property wherein is vested in one or more owner or owners, proprietor or proprietors, unless the owner or owners, proprietor or proprietors thereof shall determine to adopt the powers and provisions hereby granted, nor in either case until public notice of such determination and intention shall have been inserted in the London Gazette in respect of canals or navigations in England or Wales, in the Edinburgh Gazette in respect of canals or navigations in Scotland, and in the Dublin Gazette in respect of canals or navigations in Ireland, and in some newspaper circulating in the county or counties wherein such canal or navigation, or some part thereof, shall pass, one month at the least previously to the exercise of such powers, whereupon, or immediately after the expiration of such notice, every such company, and all such commissioners, trustees, or lessees, owners and proprietors, or their respective committees, directors, or managers, or their agents by them duly authorized in manner aforesaid, may from time to time put in force and exercise the said powers or any of them in the manner by this Act authorized.

Canal companies subject to a limitation of profits, already reached, not to raise their dues. V. Provided also, and be it enacted, that where in any canal or navigation Act there shall have been inserted any special provision, which shall be still in force and unrepealed, whereby the amount of the annual dividends, interest, or profits to be shared or divided amongst the proprietors or shareholders of such canal or navigation shall have been limited not to exceed a certain per-centage or amount, and the maximum of such per-centage or amount shall have been attained at the time of the passing of this Act, it shall not be lawful for the company of proprietors, trustees, or undertakers of any such canal or navigation to avail themselves of any of the powers of this Act for the purpose of raising or increasing the tonnage rates, tolls, or duties which on the first day of January immediately before the passing of this Act were charged or levied upon any boats, barges, or other vessels carried upon or passing along such canal or navigation, or any part thereof.

Act not to exempt any canal, &c. from any general Act. VI. And be it enacted, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to exempt any canal or navigation company who shall adopt the powers of this Act from the operation of any general Act, regulating the manner of charging tolls and other charges upon canals and navigations in respect of passengers, goods, animals, articles, and things, of a like description, which may be passed in the course of any future session of Parliament.

CHAPTER XXX.

An Act to amend an Act passed in the Third and Fourth Years of the Reign of His late Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled "An Act for the better Administration of Justice in His Majesty's Privy Council."

& 4 Will. 4.

HEREAS by an Act passed in the session held in the third and fourth years of the reign of his late Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled "An Act for the better administration of justice in his Majesty's privy council," after reciting that various appeals to his Majesty in council from the courts of Suddur Dewanny Adawlut at the several presidencies of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, in the East Indies, had been admitted by the said courts, and the transcripts of the proceedings in appeal had been from time to time transmitted under the seal of the said courts through the East India Company, then called the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies, to the office of his Majesty's said privy council, but that the suitors in the causes so appealed had not taken the necessary measures to bring on the same to a hearing, it was enacted that it should be lawful for his Majesty in council to give such directions to the said company and other persons, for the purpose of bringing to a hearing before the judicial committee of the privy council the several cases appealed or thereafter to be appealed to his Majesty in council from the several courts of Suddur Dewanny Adawlut in the East Indies, and for appointing agents and counsel for the different parties in such appeals, and to make such orders for the security and payment of the costs thereof as his said Majesty in council should think fit, and thereupon such appeals should be heard and reported on to his Majesty in council, and should be by his Majesty in council determined, in the same manner, and the judgments, orders.

" amending an Act of the last session of Parliament, relating to the building

Limiting deviation from datum line described on

XI. In making the railway it shall not be lawful for the company to deviate in the section approved of by Parliament, and as marked on the same, to any railway.

Construction of extent exceeding in any place five feet, or, in passing through a town, village, street, or land continuously built upon, two feet, without the previous consent in writing of the owners and occupiers of the land in which such deviation is intended to be made; or in case any street or public highway shall be affected by such deviation, then the same shall not be made without the consent of the trustees or commissioners having the control of such street or public highway. or, if there be no such trustees or commissioners, without the consent of the sheriff, or without the consent of the trustees or commissioners for any public sewers, or the proprietors of any canal, navigation, gas works, or water-works. affected by such deviation: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the company to deviate from the said levels to a further extent without such consent as aforesaid, by lowering solid embankments or viaducts, provided that the requisite height of headway as prescribed by Act of Parliament be left for roads, streets, or canals passing under the same: Provided also, that notice of every application to the sheriff for the purpose of considering the matter shall, fourteen days previous to such application, be given in some newspaper circulating in the county, and also be affixed upon the door of the parish church in which such deviation or alteration is intended to be made, or, if there be no church, some other place to which notices are usually affixed.

Public notice to be given previous to making greater deviations.

Power to owners of against such adjoining lands to appeal to Board of Trade deviations.

Arches, tunnels, &c. to be made as marked on deposited plans.

Limiting deviations from gradients, curves, &c.

XII. BEFORE it shall be lawful for the company to make any greater deviation from the level than five feet, or, in any town, village, street, or land continuously built upon, two feet, after having obtained such consent as aforesaid, it shall be incumbent on the company to give notice of such intended deviation by public advertisement, inserted once at least in two newspapers, or twice at least in one newspaper, circulating in the district or neighbourhood where such deviation is intended to be made, three weeks at least before commencing to make such deviation; and it shall be lawful for the owner of any lands prejudicially affected thereby, at any time before the commencement of the making of such deviation, to apply to the Board of Trade, after giving ten days notice to the company, to decide whether, having regard to the interests of such applicant, such proposed deviation is proper to be made; and it shall be lawful for the Board of Trade, if they think fit, to decide such question accordingly, and by their certificate in writing either to disallow the making of such deviation, or to authorize the making thereof, either simply, or with any such modification as shall seem proper to the Board of Trade; and after any such certificate shall have been given by the Board of Trade it shall not be lawful for the company to make such deviation, except in conformity with such certificate.

XIII. WHERE in any place it is intended to carry the railway on an arch or arches or other viaduct, as marked on the said plan or section, the same shall be made accordingly; and where a tunnel is marked on the said plan or section as intended to be made at any place, the same shall be made accordingly, unless the owners, lessees, and occupiers of the land in which such tunnel is intended to be made shall consent that the same shall not be so made.

XIV. It shall not be lawful for the company to deviate from or alter the gradients, curves, tunnels, or other engineering works described in the said plan or section, except within the following limits, and under the following conditions; (that is to say,)

Subject to the above provisions in regard to altering levels, it shall be Construction of lawful for the company to diminish the inclination or gradients of the railway to any extent, and to increase the said inclination or gradients as follows; (that is to say,) in gradients of an inclination not exceeding one in a hundred, to any extent not exceeding ten feet per mile, or to any further extent which shall be certified by the Board of Trade to be consistent with the public safety, and not prejudicial to the public interest; and in gradients exceeding the inclination of one in a hundred, to any extent not exceeding three feet per mile, or to any further extent which shall be so certified by the Board of Trade as aforesaid:

It shall be lawful for the company to diminish the radius of any curve described in the said plan to any extent which shall leave a radius of not less than half a mile, or to any further extent authorized by such certificate as aforesaid from the Board of Trade:

It shall be lawful for the company to make a tunnel, not marked on the said plan or section, instead of a cutting, or a viaduct instead of a solid embankment, if authorized by such certificate as aforesaid from the Board of Trade.

XV. IT shall be lawful for the company to deviate from the line delineated Lateral on the plans so deposited, provided that no such deviation shall extend to a greater distance than the limits of deviation delineated upon the said plans, nor to a greater extent in passing through a town than ten yards, or elsewhere to a greater extent than one hundred yards from the said line, and that the railway by means of such deviation be not made to extend into the lands of any person, whether owner, lessee, or occupier, whose name is not mentioned in the books of reference, without the previous consent in writing of such person, unless the name of such person shall have been omitted by mistake. and the fact that such omission proceeded from mistake shall have been certified in manner herein or in the special Act provided for in cases of unintentional errors in the said book of reference.

VOL. IX.

Crossing of roads, and construction of bridges

The width of the bridges need not exceed the width of the existing roads in certain cases.

Bridges to be widened in certain cases.

XLIV. PROVIDED always, that in all cases where the average available width for the passage of carriages of any existing roads within fifty yards of the points of crossing the same is less than the width herein-before prescribed for bridges over or under the railway the width of such bridges need not be greater than such average available width of such roads, but so nevertheless that such bridges be not of less width, in the case of a turnpike road or public carriage road, than twenty feet: Provided also, that if at any time after the construction of the railway the average available width of any such road shall be increased beyond the width of such bridge on either side thereof, the company shall be bound, at their own expence, to increase the width of the said bridge to such extent as they may be required by the trustees or surveyors of such road, not exceeding the width of such road as so widened, or the maximum width herein or in the special Act prescribed for a bridge in the like case over or under the railway.

Existing inclinations of roads crossed or diverted need not be improved.

XLV. Provided also, that if the mesne inclination of any road within two hundred and fifty yards of the point of crossing the same, or the inclination of such portion of any road as may require to be altered, or for which another road shall be substituted, shall be steeper than the inclination herein-before required to be preserved by the company, then the company may carry any such road over or under the railway, or may construct such altered or substi tuted road, at an inclination not steeper than the said mesne inclination of the road so to be crossed, or of the road so requiring to be altered, or for which another road shall be substituted.

Before roads interfered with, others to be substituted.

XLVI. IF, in the exercise of the powers by this or the special Act granted. it be found necessary to cross, cut through, raise, sink, or use any part of any road, whether carriage road, horse road, tramroad, or railway, either public or private, so as to render it impassable for or dangerous to passengers or carriages, or to the persons entitled to the use thereof, the company shall, before the commencement of any such operations, cause a sufficient road to be made instead of the road to be interfered with, and shall at their own expence maintain such substituted road in a state as convenient for passengers and carriages as the road so interfered with, or as nearly so as may be.

Penalty for a road.

XLVII. If the company do not cause another sufficient road to be so made not substituting before they interfere with any such existing road as aforesaid, they shall forfeit twenty pounds for every day during which such substituted road shall not be made after the existing road shall have been interrupted; and such penalty shall be paid to the trustees, commissioners, surveyor, or other person having the management of such road, if a public road, and shall be applied for the purposes thereof, or in case of a private road the same shall be paid to the owner thereof; and every such penalty shall be recoverable, with costs, by action in any competent court.

Party suffering damage from interruption of road to recover in an action on the case.

XLVIII. If any party entitled to a right of way over any road so interfered with by the company shall suffer any special damage by reason that the company shall fail to cause another sufficient road to be made before they interfere with the existing road, it shall be lawful for such party to recover the amount of such special damage from the company, with expences, by action in the Court of Session, if the damage claimed exceeds twenty-five pounds, or in the sheriff court, if the damage claimed does not exceed twenty-five pounds, and that whether any party shall have sued for such penalty as aforesaid or not, and without prejudice to the right of any party to sue for the same.

XLIX. If the road so interfered with can be restored compatibly with the formation and use of the railway, the same shall be restored to as good a Roads incondition as the same was in at the time when the same was first interfered with by the company, or as near thereto as may be; and if such road cannot or others perbe restored compatibly with the formation and use of the railway, the company stituted, within shall cause the new or substituted road, or some other sufficient substituted a limited time. road, to be put into a permanently substantial condition, equally convenient as the former road, or as near thereto as circumstances will allow; and the former road shall be restored, or the substituted road put into such condition as aforesaid, as the case may be, within the following periods after the first operation on the former road shall have been commenced, unless the trustees or parties having the management of the road to be restored by writing under their hands consent to an extension of the period, and in such case within such extended period; (that is to say,) if the road be a turnpike road, within six months, and if the road be not a turnpike road, within twelve months.

L. IF any such road be not so restored, or the substituted road so completed Penalty for as aforesaid, within the periods herein or in the special Act fixed for that purpose, the company shall forfeit to the trustees, commissioners, surveyor, or other substitute road. person having the management of the road interfered with by the company, if a public road, or if a private road to the owner thereof, twenty pounds for every day after the expiration of such periods respectively during which such road shall not be so restored or the substituted road completed; and it shall be lawful for the sheriff or justices by whom any such penalty is imposed to order the whole or any part thereof to be laid out in executing the work in respect whereof such penalty was incurred.

LI. If in the course of making the railway the company shall use or inter- Company to fere with any road, they shall from time to time make good all damage done repair roads by them to such road; and if any question shall arise as to the damage done to any such road by the company, or as to the repair thereof by them, the same shall be determined by the sheriff or two justices; and such sheriff or justices may direct such repairs to be made in the state of such road, in respect of the damage done by the company, and within such period, as they think reasonable, and may impose on the company, for not carrying into effect such repairs, any penalty, not exceeding five pounds per day, as to such sheriff or justices shall seem just; and such penalty shall be paid to the surveyor or other person having the management of the road interfered with by the company, if a public road, and be applied for the purposes of such road, or if a private road the same shall be paid to the owner thereof: Provided always, that in determining any such question with regard to a turnpike road the said sheriff or justices shall have regard to and make full allowance for any tolls that may have been paid by the company on such road in the course of the using thereof.

LII. If the railway shall cross any highway other than a public carriageway on the level, the company shall at their own expence make and at all times maintain convenient ascents and descents and other convenient approaches, with handrails and other fences, and shall, if such highway be a bridleway, erect and at all times maintain good and sufficient gates, and if the same shall crossing on the level.

LIII. When the company shall intend to apply for the consent of the sheriff or two justices, as herein-before provided, so as to authorize them to carry the railway across any highway other than a public carriage road on the level, they shall, fourteen days at least previous to the time at which such application is intended to be made, cause notice of such intended application to be given in some newspaper circulating in the county, and also to be affixed upon the door of the parish church of the parish in which such crossing is intended to be made, or, if there be no such church, some other place to which notices are usually affixed; and if it appear to the sheriff, or to any two or more justices acting for the district in which such highway at the proper crossing thereof is situate, after such notice as aforesaid, that the railway carried across such highway in the level, it shall be lawful for such sheriff or justices to consent that the same may be so carried accordingly.

LIV. If when the railway shall cross any highway on the level the company fail to make convenient ascents and descents or other convenient approaches, and such handrails, fences, gates, and stiles as they are herein-before required to make, it shall be lawful for the sheriff or two justices, on the application of the surveyor of roads, or of any two householders within the parish or district where such crossing shall be situate, after not less than ten days notice to the company, to order the company to make such ascent and descent or other approach, or such handrails, fences, gates, or stiles as aforesaid, within a period to be limited for that purpose by such sheriff or justices; and if the company fail to comply with such order they shall forfeit five pounds for every day that they fail so to do; and it shall be lawful for the sheriff or justices by whom any such penalty is imposed to order the whole or any part thereof to be applied, in such manner and by such person as they think fit, in executing the work in respect whereof such penalty was incurred.

LV. If the commissioners or trustees of any turnpike road, or the surveyor of any highway, apprehend danger to the passengers on such road in consequence of horses being frightened by the sight of the engines or carriages travelling upon the railway, it shall be lawful for such commissioners or trustees or surveyor, after giving fourteen days notice to the company, to apply to the Board of Trade with respect thereto; and if it shall appear to the said board that such danger might be obviated or lessened by the construction of any works in the nature of a screen near to or adjoining the side of such road, it shall be lawful for them, if they shall think fit, to certify the works necessary or proper to be executed by the company for the purpose of obviating or lessening such danger, and by such certificate to require the company to execute such works within a certain time after the service of such certificate, to be appointed by the said board.

LVI. Where by any such certificate as aforesaid the company shall have been required to execute any such work in the nature of a screen, they shall execute and complete the same within the period appointed for that purpose in such certificate; and if they fail so to do they shall forfeit to the commissioners or trustees or surveyor five pounds for every day during which such works shall remain uncompleted beyond the period so appointed for their completion; and it shall be lawful for the justices by whom any such penalty is imposed to order the whole or any part thereof to be laid out in executing the work in respect whereof such penalty was incurred.

WHERE, under the provisions of this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, the company are required to maintain or keep in repair any bridge, fence, approach, gate, or other work executed by them, it shall be lawful for the sheriff or two justices, on the application of the surveyor of roads, or of any two householders of the parish or district where such work have power may be situate, complaining that any such work is out of repair, after not less than ten days notice to the company, to order the company to put such work bridges, &c. into complete repair, within a period to be limited for that purpose by such sheriff or justices; and if the company fail to comply with such order they shall forfeit five pounds for every day that they fail so to do; and it shall be lawful for the sheriff or justices by whom any such penalty is imposed to order the whole or any part thereof to be applied, in such manner and by such persons as they think fit, in putting such work into repair.

LVIII. And whereas expence might frequently be avoided, and public convenience promoted, by a reference to the Board of Trade upon the construction of public works of an engineering nature connected with the railway, where a strict compliance with the provisions of this or the special Act might be impossible, or attended with inconvenience to the company, and without adequate advantage to the public: Be it enacted, that in case any difference Board of in regard to the construction, alteration, or restoration of any road or bridge, or other public work of an engineering nature, required by the provisions of this or the special Act, shall arise between the company and any trustees, commissioners, surveyors, or other persons having the control of or being authorized by law to enforce the construction of such road, bridge, or work, it shall be lawful for either party, after giving fourteen days notice in writing of their intention so to do to the other party, to apply to the Board of Trade to decide upon the proper manner of constructing, altering, or restoring such road, bridge, or other work; and it shall be lawful for the Board of Trade, if they shall think fit, to decide the same accordingly, and to authorize, by certificate in writing, any arrangement or mode of construction in regard to any such road, bridge, or other work which shall appear to them either to be in substantial compliance with the provisions of this and the special Act, or to be calculated to afford equal or greater accommodation to the public using such road, bridge, or other work; and after any such certificate shall have been given by the Board of Trade the road, bridge, or other work therein mentioned shall be constructed by the company in conformity with the terms of such certificate, and being so constructed shall be deemed to be constructed in conformity with the provisions of this and the special Act: Provided always, that no such certificate shall be granted by the Board of Trade unless they shall be satisfied that existing private rights or interests will not be injuriously affected thereby.

Branch railways.

Power to parties to make private branch railways communicating with the railway. 5 & 6 Vict. c. 55.

LXIX. AND be it enacted, that this or the special Act shall not prevent the owners or occupiers of lands adjoining to the railway, or any other persons, from laying down, either upon their own lands or upon the lands of other persons, with the consent of such persons, any collateral branches of railway to communicate with the railway, for the purpose of bringing carriages to or from or upon the railway, but under and subject to the provisions and restrictions of an Act passed in the sixth year of the reign of her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the better regulation of railways, and for the conveyance " of troops"; and the company shall, if required, at the expence of such owners and occupiers and other persons, and subject also to the provisions of the said last-mentioned Act, make openings in the rails, and such additional lines of rail as may be necessary for effecting such communication, in places where the communication can be made with safety to the public, and without injury to the railway, and without inconvenience to the traffic thereon; and the company shall not take any rate or toll or other monies for the passing of any passengers, goods, or other things along any branch so to be made by any such owner or occupier or other person; but this enactment shall be subject to the following restrictions and conditions; (that is to say,)

Restrictions and conditions. No such branch railway shall run parallel to the railway:

The company shall not be bound to make any such openings in any place which they shall have set apart for any specific purpose with which such communication would interfere, nor upon any inclined plane or bridge, nor in any tunnel:

The persons making or using such branch railways shall be subject to all bye laws and regulations of the company from time to time made with respect to passing upon or crossing the railway and otherwise; and the persons making or using such branch railways shall be bound to construct, and from time to time, as need may require, to renew, the offset plates and switches, according to the most approved plan adopted by the company, and under the direction of their engineer.

And with respect to mines lying under or near the railway, be it enacted as follows:

LXX THE company shall not be entitled to any mines of coal, ironstone, slate, or other minerals under any land purchased by them, except only such parts thereof as shall be necessary to be dug or carried away or used in the construction of the works, unless the same shall have been expressly purchased; and all such mines, excepting as aforesaid, shall be deemed to be excepted out of the conveyance of such lands, unless they shall have been expressly named therein and conveyed thereby.

LXXI. If the owner, lessee, or occupier of any mines or minerals lying under the railway, or any of the works connected therewith, or within the prescribed distance, or, where no distance shall be prescribed, forty yards therefrom, be desirous of working the same, such owner, lessee, or occupier shall give to the company notice in writing of his intention so to do, thirty days before the commencement of working; and upon the receipt of such notice it shall be lawful for the company to cause such mines to be inspected by any person appointed by them for the purpose; and if it appear to the company that the working of such mines, either wholly or partially, is likely to damage the works of the railway, and if the company be desirous that such mines or any parts thereof should be left unworked, and if they be willing to make compensation for such mines or minerals, or such parts thereof as they desire to be left unworked, they shall give notice to such owner, lessee, or occupier of such their desire, and shall in such notice specify the parts of the mines under the railway or works or within the distance aforesaid which they shall desire to be left unworked, and for which they shall be willing to make compensation; and in such case such owner, lessee, or occupier shall not work or get the mines or minerals comprised in such notice; and the company shall make compensation for the same, and for all loss or damage occasioned by the nonworking thereof, to the owner, lessee, and occupier thereof respectively; and if the company, and such owner, lessee, or occupier, do not agree as to the amount of such compensation, the same shall be settled as in other cases of disputed compensation.

LXXII. IF before the expiration of such thirty days the company do not If company give notice of their desire to have such mines left unworked, and of their are not willing willingness to make such compensation as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for such pensation, owner, lessee, or occupier to work the said mines, or such parts thereof for owner may which the company shall not have agreed to pay compensation, up to the mines. limits of the mines or minerals for which they shall have agreed to make compensation, in such manner as such owner, lessee, or occupier shall think fit, for the purpose of getting the minerals contained therein; and if any damage Damage or obor obstruction be occasioned to the railway or works by the working or getting struction to railway caused of any such minerals which the company shall so have required to be left un- by improper worked, and for which they shall so have agreed to make compensation, the working to made good. same shall be forthwith repaired or removed, as the case may require, and such damage made good, by the owner, lessee, or occupier of such mines or minerals, and at his own expence; and if such repair or removal be not forthwith done, or, if the company shall so think fit, without waiting for the same to be done by such owner, lessee, or occupier, it shall be lawful for

LXXV. If any loss or damage be sustained by the owner or occupier of Power to the company to enter and inspect the working of mines.

LXXVI. For better ascertaining whether any such mines are being worked or have been worked so as to damage the railway or works, it shall be lawful for the company, after giving twenty-four hours notice in writing, to enter upon any lands through or near which the railway passes wherein any such mines are being worked or are supposed so to be, and to enter into and return from any such mines or the works connected therewith; and for that purpose it shall be lawful for them to make use of any apparatus or machinery connected with such mines belonging to the owner, lessee, or occupier of such mines, upon payment of the reasonable cost of using and working the same, and of any loss thereby occasioned to the working of the mines, or otherwise, and to use all necessary means for discovering the distance from the railway to the parts of such mines which are being worked or about so to be.

LXX VII. IF any such owner, lessee, or occupier of any such mine shall refuse to allow any person appointed by the company for that purpose to enter into and inspect any such mines or works in manner aforesaid, every person so offending shall for every such refusal forfeit to the company a sum not exceed- allow inspecing twenty pounds.

LXXVIII. If it appear that any such mines have been worked contrary to the provisions of this or the special Act, the company may, if they think fit, give notice to the owner, lessee, or occupier thereof to construct such supports or works, and to adopt such means as may be necessary or proper for making safe the railway, and preventing injury thereto; and if after such notice any such owner, lessee, or occupier do not forthwith proceed to construct the works necessary for making safe the railway, the company may themselves construct such works, and recover the expence thereof from such owner, lessee, or occupier, by action in any competent court.

And with respect to the carrying of passengers and goods upon the railway, and the tolls to be taken thereon, be it enacted as follows:

LXXIX. It shall be lawful for the company to use and employ locomotive engines or other moving power, and carriages and waggons to be drawn or propelled thereby, and to carry and convey upon the railway all such passengers and goods as shall be offered to them for that purpose, and to make such reasonable charges in respect thereof as they may from time to time determine upon, not exceeding the tolls by the special Act authorized to be taken by them.

LXXX. It shall be lawful for the company from time to time to enter into Company any contract with any other company, being the owners or lessees or in possession of any other railway, for the passage over or along the railway by the special Act authorized to be made of any engines, coaches, waggons, or other carriages of any other company, or which shall pass over any other line of railway, or for the passage over any other line of railway of any engines, coaches, waggons, or other carriages of the company, or which shall pass over their line of railway, upon the payment of such tolls and under such conditions and restrictions as may be mutually agreed upon; and for the purpose aforesaid it shall be lawful for the respective parties to enter into any contract for the division or apportionment of the tolls to be taken upon their respective railways.

LXXXI. Provided always, that no such contract as aforesaid shall in any manner alter, affect, increase, or diminish any of the tolls which the respective companies, parties to such contracts, shall for the time being be respectively authorized and entitled to demand or receive from any person or any other company, but that all other persons and companies shall, notwithstanding any such contract, be entitled to the use and benefit of any of the said railways, upon the same terms and conditions, and on payment of the same tolls, as they would have been in case no such contract had been entered into.

LXXXII. NOTHING in this or the special Act contained shall extend to charge or make liable the company further or in any other case than where, according to the laws of Scotland, stage coach proprietors and common carriers would be liable, nor shall extend in any degree to deprive the company of any protection or privilege which common carriers or stage coach proprietors may

CHAPTER I.

An Act for the further Amendment of the Acts for the Extension and Promotion of Public Works in Ireland. 5th March 1846.]

TATHEREAS an Act was passed in the first year of her present Majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to amend the Acts for the extension and 7 will. 4. & " promotion of public works in Ireland," reciting an Act of the first and 1 Vict. c. 21. second years of his late Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled "An Act 1 & 2 Will. 4. " for the extension and promotion of public works in Ireland," the provisions c. 33. whereof were amended and extended by an Act passed in the then last session 6 & 7 Will. 4. of Parliament, and that the commissioners acting under and in execution c. 108. thereof were authorized to make advances by way of loan to a certain amount in the said Acts limited, in aid of the execution of public works in Ireland, and were also authorized to make advances for the like purpose by way of grant in aid of the construction of certain works to an amount not exceeding in the whole the sum of fifty thousand pounds, and that it was expedient, with a view to the further promotion of public works in Ireland, and the employment of the labouring population, that the said commissioners should be enabled to make advances to an additional amount by way of grant, and that provision should be made for making advances for the execution of public works under certain circumstances partly by way of loan and partly by way of grant; that is to say, by loan to the extent of one moiety of such advances. and by grant to the extent of the other moiety thereof; and by the said firstrecited Act it is enacted, that it should and might be lawful to and for the commissioners for the execution of the said recited Acts, under the like conditions and regulations, and for the purposes of the said therein-recited Acts and the said first-recited Act, to make additional advances by way of grant to an amount not exceeding in the whole the sum of fifty thousand pounds, and for the commissioners of her Majesty's Treasury, or any three or more of them, to cause to be issued from time to time as they might find necessary, out of the growing produce of the consolidated fund of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland arising in Ireland, (in addition to the sum of fifty thousand pounds therein recited to which the issues for the purposes of the grant to be

AN ACT for removing some Defects in the Administration of Criminal Justice. [26th June 1846.]

HEREAS in certain cases of felony the court is not empowered by law to award sentence of transportation for a less period than the term of the offender's life or some long term of years, or sentence of imprisonment for any shorter term than two years; but it is desirable that some such offenders should suffer transportation or imprisonment for a shorter period respectively, at the discretion of the court before which they are convicted: Now be it Power of enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and criminal courts consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present transportation Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that in all cases and imprisonwhere the court is now by law empowered or required to award a sentence of transportation exceeding seven years it shall be lawful for such court, at its discretion, to award a sentence of transportation for a term of years not less than seven years, or to award such sentence of imprisonment for any period not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, as shall to the court in its discretion appear just under all the circumstances.

II. And whereas it is now required by law that no indictment shall be presented before the grand jury of the Central Criminal Court for certain offences unless the party prosecuting shall have first entered into recognizances to prosecute: Be it enacted, that the said provision be and the same is hereby How indietrepealed; and [Rep., Stat. Law Rev. Act, 1875.] that bills of indictment may be preferred by any person before the grand jury of the said court for any offence alleged to be committed within the jurisdiction of the said court in the same Criminal manner as may be done before any other grand jury.

ments before grand jury of Central Court may be preferred.

III. And whereas doubts have been raised as to the proper place of trial, where indictments have been removed by writ of certiorari from the Central Criminal Court into the Court of Queen's Bench: Be it enacted, that every Writs for Writ of certiorari for removing an indictment from the said Central Criminal Court shall specify the county or jurisdiction in which the same shall be tried; from Central and a jury shall be summoned and the trial proceed in the same manner in all Criminal Court respects as if the indictment had been originally preferred in that county or county, &c. in Jurisdiction.

indictments which same shall be tried.

IV. And whereas by an Act passed in the last session of Parliament, 8 & 9 Vict. intituled "An Act to stay execution of judgment for misdemeanors upon giving bail in error," it is (amongst other things) enacted, that the clerk of the crown in the Court of Queen's Bench shall, for the purposes in the said Act mentioned, make out and deliver certificates in writing under his hand of the due filing of record in the said court of any recognizance given to prosecute any writ of error in the manner in the said Act mentioned, and that any such certificate, when duly verified by affidavit, shall be a sufficient warrant to every gaoler or other person having the custody of such defendant or defendants in execution of such judgment to discharge him or them out of custody, and also to every person having in his possession the whole or any part of any fine levied in execution of any such judgment to authorize and require the repayment thereof to the defendant or defendants: And whereas the making of such affidavit creates unnecessary expence and delay, and it is expedient to dispense with the same, and to make further provision for delivery of such certificates: Be it therefore enacted, that any as aforesaid under the hand either of the said clerk of the master or assistant master on the crown side of the said court the seal of the crown office in the said court, shall be a suffice the discharge of any such defendant or defendants, and for the any such fine.

Certificate of recognizance filed under recited Act, made out by proper officer, and sealed, to be sufficient warrant for discharge of defendant, or repayment of fine, without affidavit.

AN ACT for the more easy Recovery of Small Debts and Demands in England. [28th August 1846.]

HEREAS sundry Acts of Parliament have been passed from time to time for the more easy and speedy recovery of small debts within certain towns, parishes, and places in England: And whereas by an Act passed in the eighth year of the reign of her Majesty, intituled "An Act to amend 7 & 8 Vict. " the laws of insolvency, bankruptcy, and execution," arrest upon final process in actions of debt not exceeding twenty pounds was abolished, except as to certain cases of fraud and other misconduct of the debtors therein mentioned: And whereas by an Act passed in the ninth year of the reign of her said Majesty, intituled "An Act for the better securing the payment of small 8 & 9 Vict. " debts," further remedies were given to judgment creditors, in respect of debts not exceeding twenty pounds, for the discovery of the property of debtors, and punishment of frauds committed by them: And whereas by the lastmentioned Act her Majesty is enabled, with the advice of her privy council. to extend the jurisdiction of certain courts of requests and other courts for the recovery of small debts to all debts and demands, and all damages arising out of any express or implied agreement, not exceeding twenty pounds, and also to enlarge and in certain cases to contract the district of such courts, and make certain other alterations in the practice of such courts, in manner in the now-reciting Act mentioned; and it is expedient that the provisions of such Acts should be amended, and that one rule and manner of proceeding for the recovery of small debts and demands should prevail throughout England: And whereas the county court is a court of ancient jurisdiction, having cognizance of all pleas of personal actions to any amount, by virtue of a writ of justicies issued in that behalf: And whereas the proceedings in the county court are dilatory and expensive, and it is expedient to alter and regulate the manner of proceeding in the said courts for the recovery of small debts and demands, and that the courts established under the recited Acts of Parliament, or such of them as ought to be continued, should be holden after the passing of this Act as branches of the county court under the provisions of this Act, and that power should be given to her wajesty to effect these changes at such times and in such manner as may be deemed expedient by her Majesty, with the advice of her privy council: Be it enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by Her Majesty and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and may by order commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the order this same, that it shall be lawful for her Majesty, with the advice of her privy Act to be put in execution in council, from time to time to order that this Act shall be put in force in such any county. county or counties as to her Majesty, with the advice aforesaid, from time to time shall seem fit; and this Act shall extend to those counties concerning which any such order shall have been made, and not otherwise or elsewhere:

In whose name returns, &c. shall be made. this present session of Parliament for giving relief against adverse claims made upon persons having no interest in the subject of such claims: Provided always, that the return to be made to any such writ, and issues joined in fact or in law upon any traverse thereof, or upon any demurrer, shall be made and joined by and in the name of the person to whom such writ shall be directed; but nevertheless the same shall and may, if the court shall think fit so to direct, be expressed to be made and joined on the behalf of such other person as may be mentioned in such rules, and in that case such other person shall be permitted to frame the return, and to conduct the subsequent proceedings at his own expence; and in such case, if any judgment shall be given for or against the party suing such writ, such judgment shall be given against or for the person or persons on whose behalf the return shall be expressed to be made, and who shall have the like remedy for the recovery of costs and enforcing the judgment as the person to whom the writ shall have been directed might and would otherwise have had.

Proceedings not to abate by death, &c. of the officer having made the return. IV. And be it enacted, that in case the return to any such writ shall in pursuance of the authority given by this Act, be expressed to be made on behalf of any other person as aforesaid, the further proceedings on such writ shall not abate or be discontinued by the death or resignation of or removal from office of the person having made such return, but the same shall and may be continued and carried on in the name of such person; and if a peremptory writ shall be awarded, the same shall and may be directed to my successor in office or right to such person.

The costs of application for and writ of mandamus to be in the discretion of the court.

V. And for making some further provision for the payment of costs on application for mandamus: Be it enacted, that in all cases of applications for any writ of mandamus whatsoever in Ireland the costs of such application, whether the writ shall be granted or refused, and also the costs of the writ if the same shall be issued and obeyed, shall be in the discretion of the court, and the court is hereby authorized to order and direct by whom and to whom the same shall be paid.

VI. AND whereas it is expedient that parties interested in the issuing of or in the proceedings upon writs of mandamus shall be enabled in certain cases to have the judgments and decisions of the Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland in respect of the said writs, and of the proceedings thereon, reviewed by a court of error, if they shall so think fit, and that a certain mode of effecting the same shall be ordained and established: And whereas there is not any power or authority given by the said recited Act of the reign of his Majesty King George the Second to the person prosecuting a writ of mandamus to demur to the return made to any such writ, so that the decision of the said Court of Queen's Bench as to the validity of such return could be reviewed by a court of error: For remedy whereof, therefore, be it enacted, that in all cases in which the person prosecuting any writ of mandamus heretofore is well or hereafter to be issued shall wish or intend to object to the validity of any return heretofore made or hereafter to be made to the same, he shall do so by way of demurrer to the same, in such and the like manner as is now practised and used in the said court in personal actions, and thereupon the said writ and return and the said demurrer shall be entered on record in the said court, and such and the like further proceedings shall be thereupon had and taken as upon a demurrer to pleadings in personal actions in the said
